The place is replete with diverse soil qualities, which has helped to grow almost 25 green and white varieties across 382 hectares that are under the vine currently.In 2000, Alberto Tasca, the eighth generation member of the prestigious Tasca family, expanded his family's rich winemaking legacy in Sicily's four premium winegrowing regions. These regions included:Tenuta Capofaro located in the Aeolian IslandTenuta Tascante on the Mt. Etna volcanoTenuta Whitaker on the Phoenician IslandTenuta Sallier de La Tour in Monreale DOCTenuta Regaleali began making its first wines in the 1830s, when the Tasca brothers bought it as a green oasis. Initially, a light, white wine, a medium-bodied red wine and a trusted rose wine were produced in this estate. In the next few years, the estate started growing many indigenous grape varieties, in addition to the usual Bordeaux varieties.The estate stretches to over 600 hectares and is home to 12 different soil qualities. With varying altitudes of the vineyards found on the mountains here, it is not surprising at all to know that many grape varieties grow here. Currently, the estate is home to Gewurztraminer, Sauvignon, Pinot Nero, Pinot Bianco, Perricone, Nero D'Avola, Nerello Mascalese, Moscato, Inzolia, Grillo, Grecanico and Catarratto vines. The indigenous grapes grown here are highly popular among wine lovers across the globe. out more For 59 harvests it has represented the Estate whose name it bears.
